Halifax economy in need of a boost

'Below potential'
Ho-hum, predictable performance that could be better: Index

A new report on Halifax's economic status suggests the city is chugging steadily away with a middle-of-the-road and slightly underwhelming performance.

"We're doing OK, we're in the middle of the pack," said Fred Morley, chief economist with the Greater Halifax Partnership. "We're average, but we're probably below potential."

The GHP released the second annual Halifax Index Wednesday, a document measuring the city's economic and community progress as it compares to five other Canadian cities.

Among the key findings is that although Halifax's population is growing slowly but steadily, the under-14 population shrank by 8,000 from 2011 to 2012, while the over-65 segment grew by 16,000.

"Clearly we're an aging demographic, and we have to think about how we retain more of our young professionals," said Morley. "That's why people talk about the fight for talent.... Cities that can attract and hold people will be the winners in the future."

Morley said the GHP is working on a "bookend" approach to entice more regional and head-office companies to Halifax.

"We want to see those kinds of companies with deep roots and expanding in Halifax.... Those are the kinds of jobs we want," he said.

The partnership is also working with government to improve the business climate and smooth the path for young entrepreneurs and small business, and Morley said the municipal branding exercise will help with marketing efforts to the business community.

Where's the excitement?

Fred Morley said the index shows Halifax's performance remains steady and boring.

- "Halifax kind of continued to grow right through the recession and it's still on this even keel," he said.

Friday new date for postponed fireworks

Firework fans take note: HRM has rescheduled the Canada Day nighttime event for this Friday.

The fireworks will be set off from the Halifax Harbour at 10 p.m., weather permitting. Anyone can see the show from the Halifax and Dartmouth waterfronts.

If there is bad weather Friday, HRM has set Saturday, July 6 as the rain date.

Right now, Friday is calling for a mix of sun and cloud with a 40 per cent chance of showers.

HRM decided to postpone the original fireworks on Monday night due to poor visibility. METRO

Panel to hear Citadel Hill tax dispute

The Halifax Regional Municipality says its battle with Ottawa over the value of Citadel Hill is headed to a federal dispute panel.

The amount of taxes the federal government owes the city for the national historic site has yet to be settled, more than a year after Canada's top court ruled in favour of Halifax.

Halifax spokeswoman Tiffany Chase says the dates for the hearing should be known in the next few weeks.

She says sending the matter to a dispute panel was part of the Supreme Court of Canada decision last June.

Chase says since then, the two sides have been in discussions but have not been able to come to an agreement. The city says the property value of Citadel Hill was reassessed this year at $25.8 million.

During the court case, Ottawa argued it was only worth $10 because it has no commercial value.

IWK gets $1.1M boost for MRI

Upgrades. New software, hardware will mean more clear and specialized images in less time

ruth.davenport@metronews.ca

The announcement of more than a million dollars for upgrades to the MRI unit at the IWK had the hospital's chief of radiology beaming like a kid on Christmas morning.

"I can't wipe the smile off my face today," said Dr. Deborah Thompson at an event Wednesday. "This upgrade will mean a huge amount to us."

Premier Darrell Dexter and MLA Leonard Preyra were on hand to announce $1.1 million for hardware and software improvements for the IWK's 11-year-old machine.

"What this does is, it essentially creates a brand-new machine," said Dexter, adding that it was IWK staff who recommended the upgrades over buying a new unit. "With health-care costs being what they are, we looked really hard at trying to make sure that we're getting the best possible service at the best possible price."

Thompson said the upgrades will allow doctors to perform more specialized imaging sequences faster than is currently possible.

"The MRI unit will go faster and make us more efficient,"

"There are things that ... we've not been capable of doing because this machine is old ... and we've not been able to go with the flow — in other words, progress."

she said. "So the least amount of time that a young child has to be in a claustrophobic-like environment that's noisy is better."

Lower Sackville parents Holly Redden and Joey Campbell told the small crowd an MRI revealed an aggressive form of brain cancer in their son, Cody, last September.

"Cody wouldn't be with us today if it wasn't for an MRI," Redden said as the four-year-old — now cancer-free — looked on from his father's arms. "We're not sugar coating it, he wouldn't be with us."

The MRI unit performs 600 exams per month, and Thompson said the improvements will increase its capacity.

The total cost of the upgrades is just under $1.5 million. The IWK Foundation will also contribute about $370,000.

Respondents who said they're dissatisfied with the federal government has increased from 54 per cent in February to 57 per cent in the latest survey. METRO

Bringing stories to life for 50+ years

Neptune Theatre. This week marks the golden anniversary of the first play ever performed at the venue

HALEY RYAN
haley.ryan@metronews.ca

More than 50 years ago, theatre wasn't a good idea in Halifax — but Leon Major didn't listen.

Neptune Theatre's first artistic director, Major said the theatre commissioned a feasibility study in the early 1960s that didn't turn out so well.

"(It) showed we couldn't have a theatre in Halifax, to which we said, 'Oh, look, we should have a theatre in Halifax,'" Major said on Wednesday during the 50th-anniversary celebration of Neptune's first play.

Major Barbara by George Bernard Shaw opened on July 1, 1963, because Major wanted to begin on an "auspicious" event like Canada Day, with a nod to classic literature while staying away from Greek drama.

Neptune started out with a troupe of 15 actors who performed for 52 weeks in the old Garrick Theatre and got two weeks' vacation, Major said.

"We arrived not knowing whether the theatre would survive," he said.

But survive it did, and 50 years later Major said he feels "very proud" of the fact Neptune is a celebrated part of Halifax.

He offered some advice for the future, such as bringing in a French play to appeal to a new set of fans and creating original shows.

It's especially important not to fall into a rut, Major said during his talk with Neptune president Robert Batherson.

"Just because something is successful doesn't mean you have to repeat it. The more failures, the more experience," Major said.

Batherson said Neptune has lasted half a century because of its connection to the community.

"Without Neptune Theatre, I think there would be a huge void. There would be less opportunity for artists to work here," Batherson said.

"It's important that we have a stage that's ... a nationally recognized theatre to tell our own stories."

Pockwock Water Transmission Main Upgrade

Beginning the evening of Friday, July 5th Halifax Water will be performing a scheduled 24 hour shutdown to a section of the Pockwock water transmission main on Kearney Lake Rd. to allow for the renewal of 1.7km of 1200mm. diameter pipe at a cost of $11 million. The Pockwock water supply serves customers in Halifax, Bedford, Sackville, Fall River, Waverley, and Timberlea, though not all customers will be affected by this work.

During this shutdown customers will be supplied by a system of reservoirs, flows from Dartmouth via the MacDonald Bridge water line, and possibly the Chain Lake back-up water supply.

If the Chain Lake back-up water supply is activated, a boil water advisory will be issued for affected customers.

Should a boil water advisory be issued, some customers on the Halifax side of the harbour (see attached map) will be required to boil their water as a precautionary measure. Only customers within the defined map area will be required to boil their water.

If a boil water advisory is issued you should:

- Boil water using a pot, a kettle on the stove, an electric kettle without an automatic shut-off or a microwave oven.
- Heat the water until bubbles come from the bottom of the pot.
- Once the water reaches a rolling boil, let it boil for 1 minute.
- Turn off the heat source and let the water cool.
- Pour the water into a clean container with a cover for storage.

Use cooled, boiled water for:

- Drinking.
- Brushing teeth.
- Preparing and cooking food.
- Preparing infant formula.
- Making ice.
- Water for pets.

All Halifax Water customers are asked to reduce water usage (ie. lawn/garden watering, car washing, pool filling, washing of laundry etc...) on July 5th, 6th, and 7th while this phase of the project is undertaken as this will reduce the need to activate the Chain Lake supply and the resulting boil water advisory.

Full Pockwock Project information, instructions on water usage during a boil water advisory, potential boil water zone map, and frequently asked questions are available at www.halifaxwater.ca, www.halifax.ca, (click on the Pockwock Project link), Twitter at @HalifaxWater, by calling Halifax Water's Customer Service Centre at 490-4820, or offices of Nova Scotia Environment.

Opposition MP wants probe into Calgary train-bridge collapse

Transport Canada.
Calgary Mayor Naheed Nenshi and MP who represents the riding where bridge failed expressed anger with CP

An Opposition MP is calling for a separate Transport Canada investigation into the near-collapse of a flood-damaged rail bridge in Calgary to see if tough new rail safety regulations were broken.

"Someone needs to be held responsible," said New Democrat transport critic Olivia Chow.

"The federal government shouldn't wash their hands of it and the (Transportation Safety Board) is not the right venue. It really is Transport Canada."

Four petrochemical-laden rail cars derailed on a bridge over the Bow River last week when a Canadian Pacific Railway freight train was passing over the span. A preliminary investigation has determined one of the four piers that support the bridge sagged when the river swelled during heavy flooding.

CP said it inspected the bridge 18 times after the flooding began, but it was unsafe to send divers down to check below the water's surface.

"We would normally have probably put divers in to inspect, but the current was too fast," CP CEO Hunter Harrison said last week. "It's so murky, you couldn't do an appropriate inspection."

Harrison said it would have been "jeopardizing commerce" to hold back trains until divers could get in.

Chow said the federal government needs to investigate the failure under provisions of the 2011 Railway Safety Act, which came into force last May. Companies that break the rules can be fined up to $1 million and executives can be fined $50,000 or face jail time

Volunteer Chris Rogiani, left, hoses the mud off another volunteer outside a restaurant in High River, Alta., Wednesday. of up to six months.

Chow said the act requires the government to ensure railways are doing a proper job of monitoring safety procedures.

"Under the (safety management system), they're supposed to investigate if the company is following the rules or not and of course there should be an investigation," she said.

From guitarist to alleged jihadist

Four years ago, the man RCMP say planned a Canada Day terror attack at the British Columbia legislature was too drunk and violent to be kept on as the guitarist in a heavy-metal band, according to a fellow musician.

But some time between March 2009 — after his failed tryout for The Lust Boys in Victoria — and this March, when an indictment says the bombing conspiracy began, John Nuttall allegedly became a home-grown terrorist inspired by al-Qaida to kill fellow Canadians.

"It's crazy stuff," said Colin Stuart, a.k.a. Tommy Thrust, who met Nuttall through a musician forum. "It doesn't really make any sense to me really, because back when he was in the band ... he never made any reference to religion at all. He was more into politics."

Nuttall did a month tryout for the band but they parted ways at the end of March 2009.

"It didn't work out, because basically Mr. Nuttall was extremely difficult to work with and he would always be at rehearsal completely either drunk or messed up on some kind of substance," Stuart said Wednesday.

Nuttall, 38, and his partner, Amanda Korody, were arrested on Monday and charged with three counts each in relation to an alleged plot to detonate bombs at the B.C. legislature in Victoria on Canada Day, as thousands celebrated the national holiday.

Police say the two were inspired by "an al-Qaida ideology" but were not linked to any international group.

Nuttall and Korody were described as polite by the landlady of the basement suite they rented in Surrey, B.C., for the past three years.

The two-bedroom apartment sits at the bottom of a house in a residential area of Surrey, about 30 kilometres southeast of Vancouver. Their landlady lived on the house's main floor.

"When we look at them, they live in poverty, they ask for money sometimes from me," said the landlady, who did not want her name published.

"They were always looked like they have something, drugs or alcohol, but they never (caused) anything bad."

On Wednesday, there was little in the way of furnishings or belongings in the apartment, but what was there was strewn about in messy piles. It wasn't clear whether the mess was the result of the police search. THE CANADIAN PRESS

The plane truth: No sign of Snowden on president's flight

Bolivia's president left Europe for home on Wednesday in a diplomatic drama after his flight was rerouted and delayed overnight in Austria, allegedly because of suspicions he was trying to spirit NSA leaker Edward Snowden to Latin America.

Bolivia accused the United States of ordering European countries to block President Evo Morales' flight from their airspace, and accused European governments of "aggression" by thwarting the flight.

It's unclear whether European countries did block the plane. French, Spanish and Portuguese officials all said Wednesday the plane was allowed to cross their territory.

The emergency stop in Austria may have been caused by a dispute over where the plane could refuel and whether European authorities could inspect it for signs of Snowden. # Egyptians jubilant after army gives Morsi the boot

Overthrow. Chief justice of Supreme Constitutional Court will step in as interim president, military says

The armed forces ousted Egypt's first democratically elected president on Wednesday after just a year in power, installing a temporary civilian government, suspending the constitution and calling for new elections. Islamist President Mohammed Morsi denounced it as a "full coup" by the military.

After the televised announcement by the army chief, millions of anti-Morsi protesters in cities around the country erupted in delirious scenes of joy, with shouts of

"God is great" and "Long live Egypt."

Fireworks burst over dancing crowds and waving flags in Cairo's Tahrir Square, epicentre of the 2011 uprising that ousted autocrat Hosni Mubarak. It was one of multiple centres of a stunning four-day anti-Morsi revolt that brought out the biggest anti-government rallies Egypt has seen.

But the move potentially throws the country into further confrontation.

Some of Morsi's Islamist backers, tens of thousands of whom took to the streets in recent days, have vowed to fight to the end.

Gehad el-Haddad, a spokesman for the Islamist Muslim Brotherhood party, said Morsi was under house arrest at a Presidential Guard facility where he had been residing.

Ruling. Mandela's grandson ordered to return relatives' bodies

In a macabre family feud fought as Nelson Mandela remained in critical condition, a South African court ruled Wednesday that the former president's grandson must return the bodies of the 94-year-old's three deceased children to their original burial site.

Mandela is in "perilous" condition and on life support, according to an affidavit filed Friday and made public in the ruling Wednesday, according to a South African newspaper.

The judge's order means that grandson Mandla Mandela must reverse the action he took in 2011, when he moved the bodies from Mandela's hometown in Qunu to his birthplace of Mvezo, about 25 kilometres away. Mandla Mandela has authority in Mvezo as a tribal chief and has plans to create a Mandela shrine, hotel and soccer stadium there.

Mandela said he wanted to be buried in Qunu and attended the burial of his son at the family plot there in 2005.

Family divisions became public this week when 15 Mandela members, including wife Graca Machel, pressed a court case to order Mandla Mandela to return the bodies to Qunu.

Edmonton

Girl left in hot car dies in hospital

Edmonton police say a little girl left inside a parked car as outside temperatures soared above 30 C has died despite the best efforts of first responders.

The three-year-old child was found near death Tuesday evening outside a townhouse complex.

Paramedics performed CPR and provided hydration before the youngster was taken by ambulance to the Stollery Children's Hospital.

"EMS and (Edmonton Fire Department) did what they could to resuscitate the child. Despite their best efforts, the child was taken to hospital and subsequently died," Det. Scott Jones said Wednesday.

It's not known who rescued the girl or how long she had been in the vehicle.

"It's a horrible tragedy," said Jones.

"It's just another tragic reminder ... when it's sweltering hot outside, we need to make sure kids are not anywhere near a vehicle."

The temperature in Edmonton hit 33 C on Tuesday and humidity levels made it feel more like 43 C.

Retired astronaut makes supporting Alberta flood victims his top priority

JEREMY NOLAIS

Chris Hadfield's first order of business when he sets foot in Calgary on Thursday will be to buy a Stampede "Hell or High Water" T-shirt in support of Alberta flood victims.

Like so many, the Canadian astronaut said he marvels at the resilience of thousands of Albertans affected by waters that surged two weeks ago to levels not seen in a lifetime.

"It brings out what people really find important," Hadfield told Metro on Wednesday afternoon. "You collect things, you build a particular set of circumstances, but all of us realize in our heart of hearts ... what really matters are the people and how we help each other."

Now, the 53-year-old space cowboy will spend four days helping to kick off the 101st running of the Calgary Stampede, taking over parade-marshal duties Friday morning for the second time after accepting an invitation from organizers while still in orbit aboard the International Space Station.

But the ever-modest Hadfield believes his accomplishments, which include three space flights, will take a back seat to a larger cause over the next 10 days.

"I see my role very much as one of support and service," said Hadfield, who has personal connections to the area. He has family in Calgary and trained as a CF-18 fighter pilot in Cold Lake, Alta., in the mid-1980s.

While orbiting the Earth for five straight months at nearly eight kilometres a second, Hadfield installed a "disaster

But now Hadfield's focus is on the people and the Stampede itself, an event he regards as being world-class, with a truly homegrown feel.

"I'm really pleased and honoured that the organizing folks asked me to come, that I could accept from orbit, of all places," he said.

Weed has come a long way

police evidence rooms, and as legalization gathers pace across the world, many believe it represents the next great industry.

"Marijuana is like a gold rush ... and I would like to be the Coca-Cola brand," says Jamen Shively, a former Microsoft executive who is now preparing to launch
Diego Pellicer, the largest retailer yet. "After we launch in Washington (state), we will replicate that model throughout the Americas and Western Europe."

With supporters including former Mexican president
Vicente Fox, Shively is confidently projecting profits of more than $100,000 US from the first month of operation, which is likely to be in early 2014. "It's the most consumed illicit substance in the world — and the golden rule of marketing is, 'It's better to be first than best.'"

Medical marijuana alone is worth $2 billion in the U.S. and grows 24 per cent each year. Last year, Colorado and Washington became the first U.S. states to legalize the drug for recreational use, and with more states set to follow suit, momentum and commercial opportunity is growing.

When most people think of weed retailing, they think of grow supply shops. But a U.S. executive plans to launch stores that sell the finished product. GETTY IMAGES FILE

WHY WORK ISN'T WORKING

Beer commercials have lied to me about Canadian youth.

If the ads are true, then Canucks should be gallivanting around the world trying to dethrone Australians as the World's Most Obnoxious Tourists. But instead, I keep reading about highly qualified Canadian students with low-paying, miserable jobs.

It's hard to gallivant at $8 an hour.

Sometimes it's even an unpaid internship, where you get the opportunity to hear about "your" generation's sense of entitlement from a paid, union-shielded employee who calls in sick every time hockey goes to overtime.

My advice? Don't let these people talk down to you. Let me talk down to you. Follow my example and you can see how these early, difficult steps can be a stairway to success.

Be innovative. My first job was in newspapers — in the vital delivery sector — and at age 10 I was on the vanguard of innovation.

HE SAYS
John Mazerolle
metronews.ca

Papers were much thicker then, because they had to protect the TV listings, also known as the heart of the industry. You could get a story completely wrong and you might get three angry letters, each containing the words "standards" and "all my years."

But if the TV schedule was missing, you could count on a large mob of elderly women carrying pitchforks and torches demanding blood and/or a free subscription. (Usually the newspaper would sacrifice an unpaid intern.)

And here's where I got innovative: When the newspapers were especially heavy, I would pick up the full bundle and toss it into a ravine, then say the papers never arrived. I believe this was the earliest iteration of "I never got your email," an accomplishment for which I am duly proud.

Leverage your relationships. The BiWay doesn't exist anymore, but it was the sort of store that specialized in cheap socks and boxes of crushed cookies. The customers thought I was an idiot because I worked there, and I thought they were idiots because they were shopping there.

I was as awkward around the customers as possible so that my boss would put me in the storeroom where I could count things and not talk to anybody.

I could have been an accountant, but decided the best job for somebody who didn't want to talk to anybody was the media.

When you find a job you like, cling to it. One day during my first year in journalism, a stranger started yelling at me for the unforgivable sin of being a reporter. He made airplane parts and said, "You know, if we made as many mistakes as you people, a lot of people would die!"

After lamenting the loss of so many hypothetical people, I realized he hated me without even knowing me. It was then I knew I loved journalism.

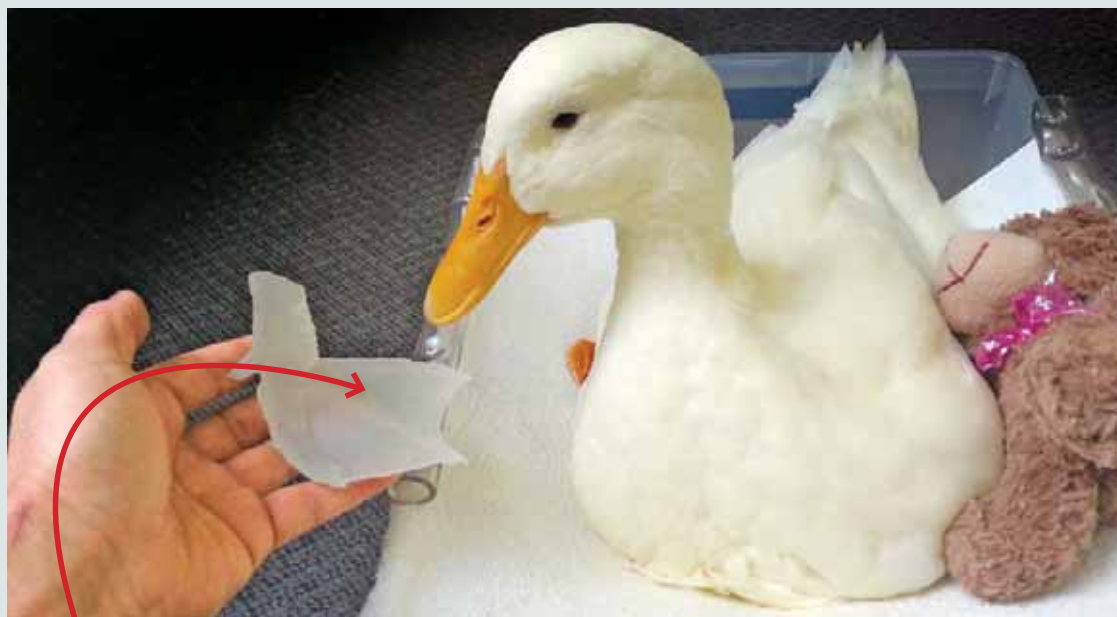

So, as you can see, with the right attitude you too can work in miserable jobs for a decade or more so that you can end up in a job where people think that you're pond scum.

I trust my story has inspired you, perhaps to tears. If not, have a beer to forget.

When I read about the working struggles of today's youth, it just makes me ill. I think I'll call in sick.

For a lucky portion of the musical population, passion and talent are in the blood.

Multi-award winning roots-blues singer, Thom Swift, could be found on stage alongside his father's band since the tender age of three.

The laws of both nature and nurture allowed Swift to become a product of his environment, catching the music bug early.

"I didn't really have a choice — I just kept going out on stage at that early an age and was surrounded by people who were having a great time with music," Swift says.

With a 12-year career under his belt with trio Hot Toddy, Swift eventually broke out on his own, releasing his first solo album, Into The Dirt, in 2007.

According to Swift, Into The Dirt was fraught with growing pains. However this first album gave him a chance to call upon his unique education.

"It's been an education through my own devices," says the Halifax-based singer-songwriter.

"I learned a tremendous amount from those other two guys, primarily work ethic, and threw myself into the solo thing."

Meek Mill has to tighten up his Twitter game

Oh man, if only we could mandate half of the people we know on Twitter and Facebook to do this! A Philadelphia judge has ordered rapper Meek Mill to complete a series of etiquette classes to "refine his use of social media" at a probation violation hearing (for drug and gun charges) last week.

A cursory glance at Meek's Twitter reveals that the rapper is prone to tweeting explicit and kinda misogynistic recommendations for lady behaviour which, while gross, isn't much worse than the kind of stuff half the pimply teen boys across America post to their various social media outlets daily.

Get it through your Thicke head, he's talking about his junk

ALEXANDRA M. CAVALLO
Metro World News

Sometimes, when I remember that Robin Thicke's dad is Alan Thicke, I laugh a lot because, oh man, what would Dr. Seaver say? Dude used to blow a lid when Mike stayed up past 9 p.m. eating ice cream and here's Robin mouth-sexing a chocolate cone while eye-sexing half-naked models in the video for Blurred Lines.

Good thing, then, that Robin's real life isn't anything like an episode of Growing Pains, because I'm pretty sure Papa Seaver might actually have a heart attack when he caught wind of Robin's new song, which, if possible, is even more inappropriate than its predecessor.

The new joint Give it 2 U (because not spelling out full words is hella sexy, as everybody knows) features a guest spot by BET Awards-sweeper Kendrick Lamar and is about, uh, well, Thicke giving it to you. It being his big, thick, throb-bing ... heart.

And here's the thing — despite being almost obnoxiously sexual (is that even a thing?) it's sort of a totally catchy jam. It'll get stuck in your head, much like Thicke plans to stick his ... never mind.

Kim Kardashian and Kanye West.

Kim and Kanye won't sell pictures of their kid

In one of the first public things Kim Kardashian and Kanye West have done in quite some time that didn't make us want to move to Siberia or some other place where people had more pressing matters (like foraging for food so as not to die) than Kim's pregnant canklles to worry about, the couple have not accepted a very large sum of money in exchange for the first photos of their newborn kid.

According to US Weekly, K Squared turned down a $3 million dollar offer for the very first pictures of North West — which is like three cents in Kardashian/Yeezy currency — but still.

It's a fairly decent move. Unless, of course, they're holding out for a better offer. In which case, same old Kanye.

A*M*E is the girl to be

Shoulder pads with 'POW!' The British singer has written tracks with Emili Sande and toured with Jessie J. She talks to us about her personal style

MCGUINNNESS
Metro World News

As a child, Amy Kabba, better known as A*M*E, fled a war-torn Sierra Leone and moved to London, where she discovered The Backstreet Boys, 'N Sync and Destiny's Child. And nope, she's not embarrassed to admit she's still a fan of '90s pop. The 18-year-old will be releasing her debut album later this year, but in the meantime, the BBC Sound of 2013 nominee opens up about her crush on Rihanna, love of Louboutins and the power of a bold lip.

As a new artist, is it difficult deciding on what your look will be?

You have to appear with a certain look, which is difficult because it's almost impossible to think of something that hasn't been done. But as a person, you grow and your style is going to change. My style is bold and bright. I once wore this Shara Hayz body suit with frosty shoulder pads that was so incredible.

I wear a lot of pieces that are like, "POW!" I like to take risks, and being a darker skin tone, bright clothes and accessories work well on me.

Are there any stages that you look back on and cringe?

I can never really say where my style will go. It evolves with me and whatever influences me at that time. When I was younger, everything used to have to match. I was addicted to Primark stripey tops. And having plimsolls that matched the stripey top. And wearing a ribbon in my hair to match the plimsolls and the top. It was horrible — my dark phase!

Given the chance, whose closet would you raid?

Rihanna's. I've got the biggest style crush on her. She wears a lot of things most people wouldn't dare to wear and she rocks them great.

I think we've got pretty similar tastes, so I think I could find some really nice outfits.

And if the offer came up, would you switch lives with Beyoncé?

Yes! She's the meaning of hard work and that's exactly what you need in this industry. She's where she is because she's incredible at what she does.

You moved to London from Sierra Leone as a child. Why did you leave?

My family fled the war in Sierra Leone and moved to London in the hope of a better life. I was really young so I don't remember too much, other than that it was really hot!

The three things she wears the most

Christian
Louboutin
Pigalle heels

"They're really sexy. It's a designer label so people see them and are like, 'She's really into her fashion!'"

Topshop

jeans

"I'm really petite and these seem to be the only jeans that fit me perfectly."

KTZ gold cut-out letter gold necklace

"Off stage and during the day-to-day, I don't really wear a lot of jewelry but as A*M*E I wear way more."

The building blocks of her style

A bold lip

"I feel like wearing a pop of colour on my lips makes me stand out a bit more. I usually wear MAC Shy Girl lipstick with a bit of gloss on top."

Scarves

"As a singer, it's important to keep your neck super warm. So I wear a lot of scarves from Topshop and Warehouse."

Oversized T-shirt dresses

"I love to wear oversized tops as dresses. I get most of mine from Ashish. It looks cool, it's comfortable and I find that it's really cute on smaller girls."

25 years of mixing music with la mode

Kylie's closet.

Minogue dishes on picking costumes, quick changes and visiting 'frumpsville' for her new book

Before Lady Gaga, Rihanna or Katy Perry married music with fashion, there was Kylie Minogue.

The singer compiled a look at her fashion choices, particularly her stage costumes, in a new book called Kylie Fashion (Running Press).

"It was lots of fun to look at my life in fashion through the years," said Minogue in a recent interview. "There've been ups and downs and fabulous moments and not so fabulous moments, but basically the book was a celebration of 25 years."

Yes, the 45-year-old even admits to some fashion faux pas.

"I had to include some moments that were less than stellar because we all make mistakes along the way. Some ideas that we thought were fantastic at that point in time were, upon reflection, a big mistake," she said. "That's all part of my journey and actually it's what I like about fashion."

showgirl costumes with plume headdresses, Minogue is game to try it all. For performances, she aims for showstoppers that will look good from the back of a large venue and hold up through 100 shows.

"I was about to say, 'things you can move in...' wait a second, about half my costumes you can't move in," she said with a laugh.

She learned that lesson the hard way decked out in headdresses, feathers and corsets on her Showgirl: The Greatest Hits Tour in 2005.

"That's why showgirls have to have poise because you can't actually tip your head," she recalled.

Minogue says there have been times when she got costumes so late that she's jumped in to help stitch them up backstage. Then there's the "quick change" in and out of elaborate costumes — something she compares to a Formula One pit stop, with four people helping her.

"A lot of stuff goes down in the quick change. It depends if the show is going well or not going well what type of vocabulary I choose," she said with a laugh.

Minogue says there's no time to be bashful when hurrying to change clothes, joking, "you kind of pass first base."

When she's away from the stage and at home, Minogue insists she "can go to total

Stoll 'fine' after suffering seizure in California

Los Angeles Kings centre Jarret Stoll was hospitalized Wednesday after suffering a seizure.

The Los Angeles Times reported that the Melville native fell ill at his Hermosa Beach home.

Kings general manager Dean Lombardi told the Times that he visited Stoll in the hospital and the "bottom line is that he's fine. Now the issue is what caused it."

The Kings did not immediately respond to an Associated Press email seeking comment on Stoll's condition Wednesday.

The 31-year-old Stoll missed all but the first game of the Kings' second-round playoff series against the Sharks after suffering a concussion following a hit by San Jose's Raffi Torres.

Mooseheads opt for import firepower

Import draft. Herd relying on European talent to help with likely loss of top line

andrew.rankin@metronews.ca

Cam Russell finally got a chance to make the trek to Switzerland last February to get a firsthand glimpse of then-16-year-old Nikolaj Ehlers.

The Halifax Mooseheads general manager had heard lots of good things about the Danish forward. After watching the five-foot-10, 176-pounder suit up with Swiss-A league's EHC Biel, Russell was determined to get him in a Mooseheads jersey.

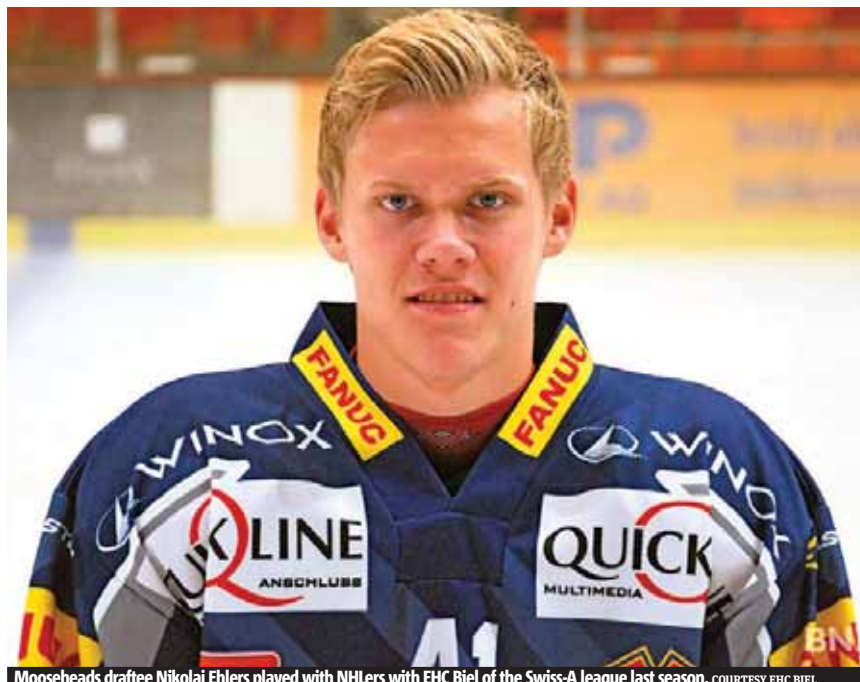

"First of all, he's a '96-born player and he was playing in the best league over there," said Russell. "As a 16-year-old, I was just impressed with the way he played against men."

It didn't hurt that he played alongside such NHLers as Patrick Kane and Tyler Seguin during the lockout.

Fast-forward to Wednesday's CHL import draft and Russell got his man with the Mooseheads' sixth-overall pick.

"He's got great speed and quickness and good hockey sense," said Russell. "He's got a little bit of salt and jam to him. He plays with a lot of passion and skill."

In seven playoff games with Biel, Ehlers picked up three points. He spent most of last season playing in Switzerland's top junior league where he collected 49 points in 32 games and racked up 21 points in 13 games with Denmark at the under-18 championship.

"These are guys who want to be professional hockey players. They're hungry and motivated."

Mooseheads GM Cam Russell

The Mooseheads used their other first-round pick, No. 12 overall, on 16-year-old left-winger Timo Meier of Switzerland. Another talented forward, the six-foot, 194-pounder registered 30 points in 33 games with the country's top under-20 squad Rapperswil last year. He also scored four goals in eight games representing Switzerland at the U-18 championship.

"He's a big, very skilled hockey player," said Russell of Meier, who was second on his list. "He's a guy along the same lines as Nikolaj."

Since CHL rules allow teams just two import players, the Mooseheads had to choose carefully, especially given the void left by two outgoing imports: Overage defenceman Konrad Abeltshauser and Marty Frk, a 19-year-old, first-line forward, who is expected to turn pro next season.

Both players, who Russell projects as at least top-six forwards, have given the organization their word that they'll report to training camp next month.

Glendale approves arena lease agreement

The Phoenix Coyotes' bid to find stability dragged on for four years and stretched for four more tense hours as the Glendale city council debated on a lease agreement with a group trying to buy the team.

Finally, as the clock ticked toward midnight, the council voted 4-3 in favour of the 15-year, $225-million US deal, all but ensuring the Coyotes will stay in Arizona.

Renaissance Sports and Entertainment still must complete the lease deal and its purchase of the team from the NHL by Aug. 5, but it appears their fight to find an owner has ended. RSE is led by Canadian businessmen George Gosbee and Anthony LeBlanc.

Now, after four years of being run by the league, the Coyotes will be able to compete for players who had been financially out of their reach and retain more of the players already on the team.

The NHL has operated the Coyotes since former owner Jerry Moyes took the team into bankruptcy in 2009.

Quebec City Mayor Regis Labeaume says he's still optimistic about getting an NHL team — even if it won't be the one currently in Phoenix.

NHL teams unload expired talent to free up cap space

Free agency. Vets bought out, waived across the league as teams look to rebuild

In a scramble by NHL teams to free space under the salary cap before the start of free agency, five veteran players were placed on unconditional waivers on Wednesday.

The Minnesota Wild confirmed they waived defenceman Tom Gilbert for the purpose of buying out the remaining year of his contract. The Nashville Predators said they placed forward Sergei Kostitsyn on waivers.

of anonymity because the NHL doesn't announce these moves.

"Due to the NHL salary cap decreasing this season, we needed to make this difficult decision to give the team more flexibility," Wild general manager Chuck Fletcher said regarding the team's decision to waive Gilbert.

The other four players waived on Wednesday could land in the same buyout category in moves made before the free-agency period opens at noon Friday.

Maple Leafs defenceman Mike Komisaruk announced on his Twitter account that he is on his way out of Toronto. Set to make $3.5 million over the final two years of his contract, Komisaruk is expected to be bought out after spending part of last season playing in the minors. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Search of secret apartment turns up more evidence

A police search of a secret "flop house" rented by former Patriots tight end Aaron Hernandez turned up boxes of ammunition and clothing police believe could be evidence in the murder case against him, according to court documents.

Police say they learned about the apartment from Carlos Ortiz, a friend of Hernandez's whom prosecutors say was with the ex-player the night he allegedly arranged the shooting of Odin Lloyd.

They then searched the $1,200-a-month apartment in Franklin on June 26, according to search warrant records at Wrentham District Court. Among the findings were a white hooded sweatshirt.

Surveillance video showed Hernandez wearing a similar sweatshirt the night Lloyd was killed on June 17, the records say.

MLB. Blue Jays stuck in the clouds again after flying too close to .500

The Toronto Blue Jays needed to be in top form with unbeaten starter Max Scherzer on the mound for Detroit on Wednesday night.

Instead they turned in a sloppy effort and the Tigers made them pay.

Scherzer won his 13th straight decision and Alex Avila hit a three-run homer as Detroit defeated Toronto 6-2 in Toronto. The Blue Jays made three errors on the night, leading to five unearned runs.

"We definitely didn't help ourselves there," said Toronto manager John Gibbons. "And like I've said before, against the better pitchers if you fall behind like that, it's an uphill battle."

Scherzer (13-0) allowed seven hits, two earned runs and had eight strikeouts over 6 1-3 innings. He became the first starting pitcher to open the season by winning 13 straight decisions since Roger Clemens.

Toronto's Josh Johnson (1-3) turned in another inconsistent outing and also struggled in the field, making two errors in the third inning alone. The game's key miscue was an error by second baseman Emilio Bonifacio that led to four unearned runs in the second inning.

Horoscopes

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

Let your heart point you in the right direction — and don't hesitate to follow where it leads. If you're bold, something out of the ordinary will happen over the next 24 hours.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

You won't get a lot of free time today but what you will get is the chance to impress people in positions of power with your can-do attitude. Don't wait to be asked to do something — show initiative.

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

You may think you can do as you please with no consequences but you are fooling yourself. Today's Sun-Uranus link warns that where there are actions there are also consequences — always.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Petty squabbles could easily get out of hand today so make sure you control your temper, no matter what the provocation. Others may stoop to devious methods but you are made of nobler stuff, hopefully.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

This is a good day for those born under the lion sign. And if you make an effort to socialize, it could be a great day. Meeting new people will brighten your life in numerous ways.

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

If you feel that you are being sold short in any way, you must kick up a fuss. The planets warn you will only get what you deserve if you stand up for yourself. Make noise.

♎ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

The Sun squares up to changes planet, Uranus, across important angles of your chart today. If you expect the unexpected, it's unlikely you will be disappointed. Stay as flexible as possible.

♏ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Don't waste your time arguing with people who think they know everything. They have their way of looking at life and you have yours, and neither of you will convert the other.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Someone will encourage you to do something outrageous today and although you may be tempted to give it a go, you know that if it goes wrong, it's you who will suffer. So don't.

♑ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Someone important is expecting you to deliver on a promise and you must not let them down. You may have to burn the candle at both ends to get it done but it's a sacrifice worth making.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You may wish you could escape your responsibilities but with the Sun squaring up to Uranus, your ruler, today that won't be possible. There are things you have to do and the time to do them is now.

♓ Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Keep an open mind today no matter how crazy some of the things you are told may sound. Just because they sound crazy doesn't mean they can't be true. Think outside your mental boundaries. SALLY BROMPTON
